

The present invention creates a thumbnail representation from a received digital representation of a photograph and associates retrieval information with said thumbnail representation. Also, the present invention associates a label identifier with said photograph. The label identifier is printed to facilitate retrieval of photographs stored in a storage structure.

5

[illegible]